

New Source of Information on Eczema Medications

NeedyMeds.org and the National Eczema Association announce a new source of information on medications used for eczema and financial resources to help assist with the cost of medications.

(PRWEB) September 16, 2009 -- The resource page, created in collaboration with the National Eczema Association, provides information on eczema including facts, research, and more. Links to the National Eczema Association and its support network, programs and services are included on the resource page. In addition, the page lists financial resources that help with the cost of the drugs used to treat eczema, including medication coupons and free or low cost healthcare clinics.

NeedyMeds has the most comprehensive and reliable database of patient assistance programs available. All the information is free, easy to access, and updated regularly. There is no registration process or need for users to enter any personal information.

The collaboration between NeedyMeds and the National Eczema Association was created to reach a larger group of people needing support and assistance in a time of shrinking resources. Both organizations are committed to serving those in need.

About NeedyMeds:

NeedyMeds, a Massachusetts-based nonprofit, is a comprehensive and reliable source of information on assistance available for people having difficulties paying for their medications or health care.
